LONDON, July 1.

A belated message from Mr. Winston Churchill, his war correspondent, is published in the "Morning Post" as to the manner of the release of the officers at the occupation of Pretoria.

DEBATE IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

EARL CARRINGTON'S ATTACK ON MR. CHAMBERLAIN.

LONDON, June 30.

In the House of Lords last night the Commonwealth of Australia Constitution Bill was read the second time.

Later.

In proposing the motion for the second reading of the Commonwealth Bill the Earl of Carrington, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, said that all the colonies were satisfied with the compromise on clause 74, relating to appeals to the Privy Council.

The Earl of Carrington, formerly Governor of New South Wales, made a violent attack on Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, for what he termed Mr. Chamberlain's imprudence in having frequently imperilled the bill. Mr. Chamberlain's compromise was, he said, an unconditional surrender.

The Earl of Halsbury, the Lord Chancellor, complained that Earl Carrington's partisan attack spoilt the harmony and unanimity of the country's acceptance of the measure.

Lord Davey, a Lord of Appeal in Ordinary, said that the compromise was not a happy solution of the difficulty, and he hoped that the colonies would hereafter modify the appeal clause.

The Earl of Kimberley, Secretary of State for the Colonies, in the course of his speech threw Earl Carrington overboard. He congratulated colonial statesmen on the skill with which they had drawn the Commonwealth's constitution.

The Earl of Jersey (formerly Governor of New South Wales), Lord Russell of Killowen (Lord Chief Justice of England), Viscount Kintore (formerly Secretary of State for the Colonies), and Lord Brassey (late Governor of Victoria) also spoke.

ADMIRAL SEYMOUR'S REPORT.

CONTINUOUS AND HEAVY FIGHTING.

HAMPERED WITH WOUNDED.

GOOD BAYONET WORK.

CHINESE ARMOURY SEIZED.

BOXERS BEHEADED IN CANTON.

ALLIES CAPTURE AN ARSENAL.

LONDON, June 30.

Vice-Admiral Sir E. H. Seymour has sent a report to the Admiralty of the operations of his recent advance on Peking, and his subsequent return to Tientsin.

He states that despite incessant attacks by the "Boxers" and the Imperial troops, who were repulsed with great loss, the expedition advanced beyond Yang-tsun, which is on the Pei-ho River, 20 miles north of Tientsin.

Finding that the railway had been demolished, and as he was short of provisions and hampered with wounded men, he commenced his retreat on June 19.

He was constantly fighting, often expelling the enemy from strong positions with the bayonet.

When the Imperial army near Tientsin was reached on June 23 friendly advances were first made towards the international force by the Chinese garrison, but then a treacherous and heavy fire was opened on the force.

The Chinese continued the heavy fire until the force of the allies captured the armory.

In it were immense stores and the latest guns and ammunition.

These were utilised in the defence of the armory by Sir E. H. Seymour, and they enabled him to repulse all efforts by the Chinese to recapture it.

Sir E. H. Seymour says that he could have resisted for several days longer only that he was hampered by his wounded.

When he was relieved on June 25 he burned the armory.

Sir E. H. Seymour's total casualties were:—

Killed. Wounded.

British. 37. 97.

The principal losses were:—

Killed. Wounded.

British. 37. 97.

The losses of the French, Italian, Austrian, and Japanese troops with the force were smaller.

ALLIES CAPTURE AN ARSENAL.

BRITISH-CHINESE TROOPS ENGAGED.

LONDON, July 1.

A force of the allies on Wednesday last captured the Chinese arsenal at the north-east of Tientsin.

Four British bluejackets were killed and 15 wounded.

The detachment from the British Chinese regiment at Wei-hai-wei repulsed a flank attack by the Boxers with heavy loss.

TIENTSIN STILL BOMBARDED.

LONDON, July 1.

The Chinese troops are still bombarding the west side of Tientsin.

Their shells, however, explode ineffectually.

ADMIRAL KEMPF SUPERSEDED.

LONDON, June 29.

The New York "Tribune" states that the American Government has ordered Rear-Admiral G. C. Berney, commandant of the naval establishment at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, to replace Rear-Admiral Kempf, commanding the squadron on the China station.

The failure of Rear-Admiral Kempf to participate with the squadrons of the other Powers in the attack on the Taku forts has been commented upon in the United States.

AMBASSADORS STILL AT PEKING.

LONDON, June 30.

In the House of Commons last night Mr. St. John Brodrick, Parliamentary Secretary for Foreign Affairs, stated that the latest report which the Government had received pointed to the Ambassadors being still at Peking.

THE ATTACK ON A FRENCH CONSUL.

RINGLEADERS BEHEADED.

LONDON, June 30.

The Viceroy of Yunnan has cabled to M. Delcasse, the French Minister for Foreign Affairs, that he has beheaded all the men who incited the crowd against M. Francois, the French Consul, and his staff.

LONDON, June 29.

Mr. Julian Ralph, the war correspondent, strongly expressed his surprise at the condition of hospitals in South Africa.

JUNE 30.

Mr. G. Wyndham, Under-Secretary for War, in the House of Commons last night, admitted that there had been terrible hardships, but that every effort had been made to mitigate them.

There were untold supplies for the hospitals, he said, but there were also inseparable difficulties in the way of having those supplies fully utilized.

The percentage of deaths from disease in the hospitals, he said, was not higher than that of the home hospitals.

Mr. Wyndham read a telegram from Lord Roberts stating that any defects which existed were accidental, not typical.

Mr. W. A. Burdett-Coutts reiterated the horrors of the Kromstad and Bloemfontein camps, and of the Maitland and other camps near Capetown, set forth in his letter to the "Times." He exhorted Lord Roberts, but blamed the system of the War Office as being responsible for the defects.

Sir B. Walter Foster, M.D., M.P. for Ekeston, Derbyshire, said that half the deaths from disease were avoidable.

Mr. A. J. Balfour, leader of the House of Commons, promised that the Government would institute an inquiry. He justified the phenomenal rapid advance of Lord Roberts, even if he had been only able to carry a limited quantity of medical supplies. There was, he said, an unexpected outbreak of enteric fever after the capture of Paardeburg in February last.

[Mr. W. A. Burdett-Coutts, M.P., in a letter to the "Times" supplied the following details of the outbreak of enteric fever in the hospitals.]
